

SANCTIFY PARENT RESOURCE

First-Phone Kit

A calmer way to hand a child their first connected device.

Use this before the phone leaves your hand. The goal is not fear. The goal is a shared standard, honest conversation, and a protection plan your child understands.

STEP 1

Agree

Name the family standard before the device creates its own.

STEP 2

Covenant

Make the rules simple enough for a child to repeat.

STEP 3

Protect

Turn the agreement into background protection across devices.

STEP 1

Parent pre-flight checklist

Before the device is handed over, make the boundary concrete.

☐

We agreed where the phone sleeps at night.

☐

We agreed which apps need approval before install.

☐

We agreed what happens when a site or app is blocked.

☐

We agreed who the child can ask for help when tempted or confused.

☐

We agreed that parents can review device settings without it becoming a fight.

☐

We installed protection before the first unsupervised use.

☐

We chose a faith standard that matches how our household actually lives.

☐

We scheduled a one-week check-in instead of waiting for a crisis.

STEP 2

First-phone family covenant

I will bring confusing, tempting, or frightening content to my parent instead of hiding it.

I will not use private browsing, alternate accounts, or another device to work around our family rules.

I understand that protection is here to guard peace, trust, and formation, not to embarrass me.

When I make a mistake, I can tell the truth and receive help.

STEP 3

Conversation script

Keep the first talk short enough that your child can remember it.

SAY THIS

Open with trust

This phone is a privilege because we trust you, and it also brings doors into places we do not want shaping your heart.

SAY THIS

Name the standard

Our family follows a faith standard. That means some things are not for us, even when other families allow them.

SAY THIS

Make mistakes survivable

If something slips through, tell us. You will not be punished for asking for help when you need it.

STEP 4

Early warning signs

- The device suddenly becomes private, hidden, or emotionally charged.
- The child becomes defensive about settings, app installs, or browser history.
- Sleep changes after late-night use.
- Faith practices, schoolwork, or family time start losing ground to the screen.
- A blocked moment becomes shame instead of a chance to ask for help.

BRING THE STANDARD INTO THE DEVICE

Sanctify turns the covenant into protection that runs in the background.

Choose the faith profile, connect the household devices, and give blocked moments a calm path back toward peace.

1

Choose the faith profile

Start with the standard your household already follows.

2

Connect household devices

Protect phones, tablets, laptops, smart TVs, and home Wi-Fi.

3

Review after one week

Ask what felt clear, what felt hard, and what needs to change.
